For more than twenty-three years, The Fairmont Waterfront has embraced community partnerships and the idea of Eating Local — a sustainable living philosophy that's rapidly gaining in popularity. And it doesn't get any more local than our 3rd floor terrace. Planted in 1996, our charming 2100 square foot herb garden became one of the first green roofs in the heart of downtown Vancouver, where we grow over twenty varieties of herbs, vegetables, fruits and edible blossoms organically, including rosemary, lavender, bay leaves, tarragon, garlic, kale, leeks, rainbow chard, carrots, peppers, green onions, strawberries, pumpkins and apples.

In keeping with our commitment to sustainability, The Fairmont Waterfront welcomed honeybees to our rooftop in 2008. Currently the home to 5 hives, and approximately 250,000+ honeybees, a symbiotic relationship has been formed with our existing herb garden. Each year the bees are a buzz, producing a harvest of honey, which is also widely used in our food and beverage offerings.
